

Maria H. Homem Scholarship Fund

February 12, 2018

Dear Music Educator,

Each year the Etude Club of Berkeley awards financial support to young musicians as a reward for their hard work and to encourage them to continue their musical studies. One of those awards is a grant funded by a bequest from Maria Homem, a former music teacher, performer, and member of the Etude Club. It is awarded to a music education program whose students are unable, under normal circumstances, to study music privately. We hope in this way to encourage the study of music for all students.

The club considers requests for grants up to $1500. It's enough to provide not only recognition of a program, but also sheet music, some professional coaching or a class trip that will deepen students' experience of the music they study. We are interested in knowing about your school or music program, and the children who are involved in it.

To apply for this grant, please answer the questions on the following page. You may also download an application at www.etudeclub.org/scholarships. Mail your completed application to
